Summer Resort.

GRAND VIEW HOUSE,

Situated at West Auburn, Maine,

Six hours ride from Boston, via Boston & Maine and Eastern Railroads. The house is situated on high ground some 500 feet above the beautiful Lake Auburn and contains about 65 rooms. Broad Piazzas on all sides, and the view of the surrounding country is unsurpassed in the State of Maine. Beautiful shade trees in front of house, fine Croquet grounds, Billiard Hall, Bowling Alley &c. Furniture and Carpets all new and of desirable patterns. House lighted by gas, Electric Bells in every room, Post office and church three minutes walk from the house. Two mails daily from Boston. The guests will be supplied with water fresh from the celebrated Mineral Spring every day This water has no superior and is taking a high rank throughout the country on account of its medical properties. This house will be kept first class in every respect. The tables will be supplied with all the delicacies of the market, the best of cooks will be employed, no pains will be spared to make this house a pleasant home for all who may come. A large Stable with a fine Livery connected with the house. Gentlemen can bring their own teams and have the best of care taken of them. The house will be open for the reception of guests about the 15th of June. Thanking the public and my friends for their liberal patronage bestowed on me the past season while at the Lake Auburn House, I hope by strict attention to the wants of my guests to retain a share of the same at my new Hotel. Application for board and rooms can be made to the subscriber at West Auburn, Maine.

Important to Owners of Horses and Cattle.

The undersigned respectfully informs his numerous friends and the public that he is practicing successfully the Reformed Veterinary Art, the principles of which consist in the rejection of blood letting and the use of poisonous drugs, which has hitherto been the great antiphlagistic of the Allopathic school and which has produced more destruction in the animal kingdom than the pestilential sword. The medicines used in the physiological practice are safe and efficient and generally establish the health of the animal without that tedious convalescence which usually attends the administration of calomel, antimony, corrosive sublimate, arsenic, copper, the mineral acids, etc. Horses with spavins, splints, ringbones and all other enlargements cured with Haskell's Ringbone and Spavin Cure or no charge will be required for the same.

Respectfully yours.

The Cincinnati Nomination.

The nomination at Cincinnati is an evasion. The Convention discarded its leaders, the men who believe in the Democratic policy, and are identified with the history of that party, and chose as its standard-bearer a man who has no part in the Democratic past. Ignoring its angry declamation against military rulers it hoists the pennon of a Major-General of the regular army. While still saying something about the currency and the tariff, it names a candidate who is not known to have ever expressed an opinion on either topic. Still stoutly contending, in its platform, for State Rights, it selects as its nominee for the Presidency one who but lately took occasion to express his opposition to that dogma. General Hancock has been taken up because he has no political record, and, so far as is known, is not embarrassed with political convictions. His nomination is a confession that the Democracy is afraid of its history and fears to appeal to the people with any man who assisted in making that history. It goes into the fight under false colors, and puts the blue over its suit of Confederate gray, as it has sometimes done before on real battlefields.

The nomination is clean and respectable. General Hancock was a brave and generally successful soldier, who played his part well in the war of the Rebellion. We are not aware that his military record has ever been called in question. As for his civil record, he has none. He is a man of as stainless character as General Garfield, but unlike that gentleman, has had no experience in legislation, no share in the great measures with which the Republican party has graced the statute-book. In the qualities and experience that go to make up a great statesman the Pennsylvanian cannot be even compared to the Ohio man. But his nomination will have one good effect. His personal character will not be assaulted and need not be defended, and the fight will be made, as it should be, between the policies and tendencies of the Republican and the Democratic parties.

OF the charges against General Garfield Senator Hoar says: "I was one of the committee who investigated the Credit Mobilier, and wrote the greater part of the report of the committee known as the Wilson Committee. There was nothing in the transaction which in the least gave me reason to distrust General Garfield's absolute integrity. I expressed my opinion of the absolute honor and integrity of General Garfield in this matter years ago. No man, Democrat or Republican, who ever served with Garfield does, I think, doubt that he is absolutely incorruptible. He has been for years on the Committees of Appropriations and Ways and Means, controlling the expenditure of millions upon millions, and policies that make and unmake great business interests."

A Democrat at Cincinnati is reported to have delivered the following opinion: "There isn't respectability enough in the Democratic party to nominate Tom Bayard. He usually has a clean shirt, knows how to take a glass of wine with a lady, doesn't squirt tobacco juice over himself, and can wear a dress coat; no, he'd never do in the world. What would these fellows from the southwest say to a man like that? They'd probably say what old Culberson of Texas said: "Bayard!" said he; "no, sir; he's got too much honah for us, you know. We couldn't climb up to him with a ladder."

THE New York Telegram, which had thought that the old custom house feuds would prevent the hearty acceptance of the Chicago ticket by many Republican officials, now states on the assurance of one high authority in the New York custom house, that Garfield and Arthur will be heartily supported by the entire body of Republicans there.

DETROIT Post: The Republicans of Maine are not pouters. Though they wanted Blaine, they are delighted with Garfield, and there is universal confidence among them that they will carry the State by a large majority in September, and repeat by a greater majority in November.

MANTON MARBLE is charged by the New York Tribune with being a chap who, if he got a whack at the Cincinnati platform, would send the English language out of the fracas looking like a Long Island sound steamer on a foggy night. Evidently he got that whack.

BY direction of the Federal authorities, sanitary guard boats have been stationed on the Mississippi river at Cairo, Memphis and Vicksburg. The precaution is judicious. As the saying goes, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and too much care cannot be taken to protect the low-lying districts along the Mississippi from infection. There is not much ground for hoping that the season will pass without any outbreak. Something in the way of drainage has been done at Memphis, but so far as heard from, the other cities subject to the plague are still trusting to luck, and are rather more likely than not to be suffering from the fever before the Summer is over.

THAT was a doubtful compliment paid by Daniel Dougherty to Gen. Hancock, "A soldier whose name is as stainless as his sword." A soldier whose weapon is guiltless of blood would be very poor stuff for a hero. Dougherty's Irish blood went to his tongue when he made that bull.

THERE can be no doubt about the original Hancock man in Maine. Gen. S. J. Anderson presented Gen. Hancock's name to the New York Convention in 1868. That means the Collectorship, sure. The old custom-house ring is still on top.

IF Congressman Frye is a man of feeling he will present a service of silver plate to Mr. Frank Fogg—for Mr. Fogg is about to assist Mr. Frye by enlarging the Chronicle and issuing it six times a week.

"THIS is the campaign of the private soldier," says the Era-Leader. Indeed! Gen. Garfield, Gen. Hancock, Gen. Weaver, Gen. Dow, Gen. Plaisted. Private Davis of Maine seems to be the only private who is making the campaign.

A MINNESOTA Republican newspaper, the New Ulm Review, is so confident of the election of Garfield that it offers to send the paper for a year to anyone, the price not to be paid unless he is elected.

ATTEMPTS to introduce the district telegraph system in London have not met with success; probably in about twenty years they will, just as the street railroads did.

SENATOR Paddock of Nebraska says that the census returns will show that his State has a population of more than half a million. In 1870 the population was 122,993.

VERY appropriately the Cincinnati Convention closed its exercises with Auld Lang Syne. The face of the Convention was turned to the past.

THE Westliche Post is of opinion that it is possible to elect four Republican representatives to Congress from Missouri.

JOHN KELLY pledges the repeaters of Tammany to the support of the ticket. Hancock never led a horde like that before.

THE Convention paid Mr. Tilden a high and rare compliment. It took him at his word.

THE Democrats have already persuaded themselves that they all served in the war—and on the right side, too.

That Poland Report.

What Its Author Has to Say.

Democratic papers have made frequent mention of late of "the Poland Report." Their attention is called to the following letter from the author of that report, Judge Poland, read before the Vermont Republican Convention Wednesday:

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., June 22, 1880.

To the President of the Convention:

SIR:—I was chosen a delegate to the Convention by the Republicans of this town and hoped to be able to attend, but the unexpected prolongation of the court in this county prevents. I greatly regret my inability to be present. I am not at all anxious to participate in the selection of a State ticket. The Republicans of Vermont can always be safely trusted to nominate good men. I only desired to have an opportunity to express to the Convention and to Republicans everywhere my entire approval of the nominations made at Chicago. Probably no man in Vermont knew General Garfield more intimately than myself. He was in Congress during the whole of my ten years' service, and for eight years we stood together in the House, and ever on terms of intimacy. Of his eminent ability, power in debate and untiring devotion to public service I need not speak. His long service and leading position in Congress have made them known to all the people of the country who take any interest in public affairs. But our political opponents affect to question his personal integrity and purity of character, and to base their accusations upon the evidence taken before, and report of, a committee of Congress, of which I was chairman, known as the Credit Mobilier committee. Now I desire to say to the convention, and to all who may feel any interest in my opinion of Gen. Garfield, that nothing which appeared before that committee or which appears in this report, or any other matter or thing which ever came to my knowledge in regard to him, ever led me to doubt his personal integrity. I believe him to be a thoroughly upright and honest man, and one who would be so under all circumstances and against any temptation. The use that is being made of my name and of the report of the committee which was drawn by me, in my opinion makes it proper for me to express my personal judgment as to the character of the man. I ask you to do me the favor to communicate this note to the convention.

LUKE P. POLAND.

Dixie.

The Rebel Yell at Cincinnati.

One of the special correspondents of the Boston Herald at Cincinnati gives the following animated account of the scene in the Convention when the strains of "Dixie" fell upon the ears of the delegates:

When the roll was completed, the secretary began footing up the results, and, as the task was a long one, the band seized the opportunity to get in some work. Its tooting and booming was unheeded until it struck up "Dixie," and then, as the familiar strains rang through the hall, the old rebel yell, rarely heard since the days of Appomattox and the apple tree, rose and echoed again and again, with shrill and startling earnestness. Not a cheer was mingled with it, not a shout, but the clear, piercing cry that penetrated the ear like the notes of the fife and the clarinet, wavered and rang shuddering until the close and heated atmosphere fairly palpitated with its strange, weird tones. It was a startling episode. Old Confederates pricked up their ears and joined in, as the superannuated charger joins his neigh to the well-remembered bugle call, heard after many years of peaceful pasturage. Union officers and soldiers who had not listened to the Southern slogan since it came from parched and heated throats above the gray ranks charging the blue on some bloody, hard-fought field, leaped to their feet, alive with the instinct that announces the near presence of a foe, then, laughing at their sudden alarm, joined in the cry. For several minutes the yell continued, until its long drawn, throbbing notes were broken in upon by the strains of "Yankee Doodle."

Dandies.

Phases o Social and Literary Dandyism.

London Saturday Review.]

Dandies like saints, are never much beloved byeir fellow-creatures. Like saints, they havan ideal perfection of manner and dress, an ideals are felt to be impertinent. To be a ndy is to outrage the vanity of every one whoas not the energy to be wakefully attentivto details of deportment and costume. The grt dandies of old days, Brummell, Lauzund the rest, were everywhere welcomed,cause they made themselves disagreeab to so many people. There is a kind of popurity which is acquired by an attitude provokgly unpopular. Men and women are attracl by the courage which despises and disregls their feelings. People whose minute peptions and sense of their own merit makehem detested, become notorious, and consently are sought after. A sage might say tospiring boyhood, "Young man, be a pupp In this respect, as in others more impont, the prizes of the world are to the impunt. Society truckles to people who can consently display their conscious superiority. They magnitude of their insolence and the glness of their importunity excite curiosity andelicome analysis. People are anxious to judjfor themselves as to whether a conspicuousconceited fellow is in earnest and a supre fool, or whether he is quietly playing a par Thus the eccentricity of imperturbable vany, a vanity which declares itself in peculiay of dress and manners, is rather a good induction to society. A famous living statesman was remarkable for his canes and wstcoats even before he was admired or fed for his wit or eloquence. Dandyism wto him only a stepping stone, as it usually is? young people of high ambition and real sngth of character. They learn very early ghlife that to be remarked is the first thing cessary for success, and social success is of surse more readily attained than literary or olitical notoriety, and may lead on to those higher prizes. It would probably be a mistake to suppose that "the higher dandyism" is entirely a matter of calculation. The most distinguished dandies in the history of society have been men of great power and ambition disguised as fops. They have thus disguised themselves not only because the distinction gained by impertinent perfection of dress was necessary to their projects, but because they could not do anything by halves, and because they were supremely vain. Vanity, a quality much decried, is really necessary for some sorts of success. Without vanity there could scarcely be any ambition. In the evolution of character vanity first declares itself in the child and the savage, and it clings to many generals, statesmen and divines. The gigantic tailor's and jeweller's bills of a son do not usually make a parent's heart sing for joy; but these bills may, in rare cases, be more full of promise and encouragement than any number of medals and first-classes. It is difficult, however, to get parents and guardians to take this hopeful view, and the young genius for dandyism, like genius for the other arts, is too often persecuted by indignant and terrified relations.

A young man is never more certain of social success than at the moment when most other young men never mention him without saying that they "would like to kick him." As Thackeray observed in the case of Pendennis, that desire is the result of envy, and of conscious humiliation awakened in manly bosoms. To provoke people so much is a token of superiority, and a prize of nonbalance. Nor is it social dandyism alone which thus irritates the rabble of decent fellows,who have neither the vanity, nor the impudence, nor the strength of resolution to win distinction. Literary dandyism is also excessively annoying to the rugged hodmen of letters, the rapid picturesque writers, the half or quarter-educated persons who crowd the press, and carry their farrago of ill-assorted observations to an uncritical public. These industrious persons detest the literary dandy, the man who minds his periods, and regards the cadence of his sentences, and shuns stock illustrations and old quotations, as the social dandy avoids dirty gloves and clumsy boots. They howl at him as the little humorous street boys bully some small Etonian with a tall hat and a broad white collar, who has lost himself in Seven Dials. This antagonism naturally breeds more excess in literary dandyism, till the prose of some critics is as full of musk or millefleurs as the handkerchief of a popular preacher. Both parties are hardened in their ways; the rough-and-ready pressman becomes careless even of grammar, and trots out his quotations from Macaulay's essays more vigorously than of old. The prose of the exquisite begins to die away in aromatic nonsense, and his great genius tires itself to death in hunting for rare exotic adjectives.

There have been schools of literary dandyism, there have been literary dandies, more robust than those of our time. Where we can show nothing much better (if Mr. Arnold belongs to an earlier generation) than Mr. Dowden and Mr. Pater, the great literary ages can boast of Plato, Catullus, Ronsard, Pascal, Horace Walpole, Sir Philip Sidney—nay, one might add, Buffon and Machiavelli. The two last named may be recognized as literary dandies because they respected the mere details of their literary labor. They were not of the sect that swears by tattered old slippers that toast at the fire and ragged old jackets perfumed with cigars. They arrayed themselves in fine linen, if not in purple, before they sat down to describe the animal kingdom or give rules for the conduct of the Prince. The other writers, whose names we have taken very much at random from a crowd of the greatest authors, were dandies in style, exquisites in literary manners, precisions who turned away from what was commonplace in thought. They lived among slipshod writers, or in ages when all the world scribbled, or in times when style was disregarded, or not invented, and they set themselves to seek after grace and distinction.

The Russian Empress Marie.

The late Empress Marie of Russia was a woman of great culture, and is said to have dis liked the shallowness and frivolity of the grumbling boyards. She admitted few of them to her intimacy, but Germanized her Court more and more, and gave considerable offence by constantly speaking her native tongue instead of French. By and by, when she got to know them better, she was careful to humor their prejudices; but her antipathy to anything French never relented at any time, and one of her frequent apostrophes to courtiers who had been travelling was—"Talk to me of anything except Paris." The Empress's favorite authors, after those of her own country were English; and though she had no political liking for Great Britain, she studied the language diligently, and was conversant with the works of the best poets and novelists. Of handsome presence and grave mein, the Empress always seemed to be at Court more rigid than she actually was. She appeared to have no taste for gaieties, whereas in her private circle she was of mirthful mood and liked to see her children enjoying themselves unreservedly. She was the best of mothers, and caused her sons to be educated in all the accomplishments instead of letting them be drilled into mere soldiers as had been the fashion under Nicholas's reign. To all of them she imparted her own taste for music and reading.

A Rich Woman.

The richest woman in America is Mrs. E. H. Greene, the wife of the vice president of the Louisville and Nashville road. She was a Miss Robinson, and her father was a whaling master at Bedford, Mass. He owned a fleet of ships known as the blue line of whalers, and from his profession was known as "Blubber Robinson." He died when his daughter was a mere girl, and left her a fortune of about eight millions. She lived slenderly and prudently, and gave the management of her affairs to Mr. John J. Cisco of New York. As her tastes were simple and her wants few she was able to transfer her enormous income almost every year to the body of the fortune itself, and it has now accumulated to more than $27,000,000. Her husband, Mr. Greene, was a very rich man when she married him, and has been successful since. It is said by one who should know, that the income of this couple is $2,500,000 a year, Mr. Greene is about 47 years of age and she is about 43.

BY TELEGRAPH.

THE SECOND DISTRICT.

CONGRESSMAN FRYE RENOMINATED.

[Special Despatch to the Press.]

AUBURN, June 24.—The Second District Republican Convention was held to-day in Auburn Hall. It was a harmonious and enthusiastic meeting of honest and determined delegates. Great unanimity of feeling existed. Wm. P. Frye indeed holds the fort in all the loyal hearts of the Second District Republicans. Embodied in the resolutions are pronounced the brave and patriotic sentiments emanating from men who cannot be shaken by heresy or fanaticism.

The Convention was called to order at 11.30 o'clock a. m. by James S. Wright, of Oxford, acting chairman of the District Committee, who read the call for the convention, and nominated James Morrison, Jr., of Franklin, temporary chairman. Mr. Morrison thanked the meeting and appreciated the honor. He said for a quarter of a century the Republican party had had control of this county, which is unsurpassed in its mercantile, manufacturing, agricultural and scientific progress. "I congratulate all of you," he said, "upon this glorious result. I congratulate upon the elevated position that the Republican party now occupies. Disappointed though we may be that the honored James G. Blaine, (great applause) the plumed prince among statesmen, was not placed on our Presidential ticket at Chicago, yet with James A. Garfield we can and will annihilate the enemy. (Great applause.) Our beloved, noble and honored Gov. Davis was nominated at Augusta yesterday, and with him we can sweep the State next fall. (Applause.

John H. Bodwell, of Oxford, was chosen temporary Secretary.

Upon motion of Hon. George C. Wing the District Committee were constituted a committee on credentials.

Upon suggestion of Mayor Day. of Lewiston, Hon. M. T. Ludden, of Lewiston, addressed the convention. He congratulated the delegates upon the favorable auspices hovering over the Republican party to-day. He arraigned in bitter terms the Democratic party as bringing labor upon the level with heathenism, the chairman of the Cincinnati convention to the contrary. (Applause.) That party has been opposed from the beginning to freedom, to temperance and to all that sustains the rights, privileges and prosperity of American citizens. The Republican party is the only friend of the laboring man, and has executed its mission toward breaking this slavery of laborers and upholding their liberties. I invite the laborer under our folds. Success is the word upon our banner, and with the illustrious man, our nominee, Gen. Garfield, victory ir surely ours. (Applause.)

The Committee on Credentials made the following report:

Whole number of delegates present	204
Androscoggin	79
Oxford	50
Sagadahoc	47
Franklin	28

Upon motion of A. R. Savage, Esq., the temporary organization was made permanent, with such Vice Presidents as may be hereafter chosen.

Alfred E. Jordan, of Androscoggin, J. C. Marble, of Oxford, Benj. F. Marble, of Sagadahoc, and Seward Dill, of Franklin, were elected Vice Presidents.

Wm. D. Pennell, of Androscoggin, James S. Wright, of Oxford, John B. Morrison, of Franklin, and Chas. E. Purrington, of Sagadahoc, were elected District Committee.

A. R. Savage, of Androscoggin, J. P. Swasey, of Oxford, A. D. Russell, of Franklin, and J. G. Richardson, of Sagadahoc, were elected a Committee on Resolutions.

Hon. John P. Swasey, of Oxford, addressed the convention. He said;—I echo the sentiments already uttered. We have accomplished victories, but the same old enemy is to meet us again face to face in this campaign. We have the honored person, the heroic James A. Garfield, as our leader, and with God and right upon our side defeat cannot come to our arms. (Great applause.) Gen. Garfield is our candidate, and he is to be our next President. (Applause.) The cry comes from Oxford down to Sagadahoc, up to Franklin and through Androscoggin Wm. P. Frye as our next Representative, the true and tried, who in honesty of purpose, purity of action is unsurpassed. (Continued applause.) I move his nomination by acclamation.

It was carried nnanimously. Three cheers were given heartily for the nominee amid great enthusiasm.

Hon. M. T. Ludden, in a few well chosen remarks, presented the name of Otis Hayford, of Canton, as Elector.

Mr. Hayford was unanimously nominated by acclamation.

The Committee on Resolutions reported as follows:

Resolved, That we hereby approve the principles laid down in the platform adopted by the late National Republican Convention at Chicago and by the State Republican Convention at Augusta, and we pledge the utmost efforts of the Republican party of this District in the election of the nominees of those conventions.

Resolved, That in presenting the name of Hon. William P. Frye for the sixth time as a candidate for Congressman we are but honoring ourselves and the people of this District, whom he has served so long and with such brilliant success. We point to him with pride as one of the foremost leaders of the great national Republican party, one whose voice is always heard and whose strong right arm is always uplifted in the thickest of the fray, and we pledge to him our hearty and undivided support.

The report was adopted.

A. R. Savage, Esq., of Auburn, was then called to the platform amid applause and spoke eloquently and pointedly for half an hour.

At 12.30 the convention adjourned.

THE FOURTH DISTRICT.

Capt. C. A. Boutelle Nominated for Representative Unanimously.

BANGOR, June 24.—The Fourth Congressional district convention of Republicans was held this forenoon. It was large and harmonious, every county in the district being represented. S. W. Mathews of Aroostook presided. Two hundred and one delegates were present. Capt. C. A. Boutelle was nominated unanimously by ballot as Representative to Congress, receiving every vote. A committee was appointed to wait upon him, and he appeared, accepting the nomination in person,and was received with great enthusiasm. Speeches were made by Hen. Lewis Barker and Senator Hamlin.

Lewis B. Johnson of Houlton was nominated for Presidential elector.

The friends of Capt. Boutelle in large numbers marched to his residence on Broadway this evening and tendered him a serenade in honor of his nomination. Speeches were made by Capt. Boutelle and Gov. Davis. Music by the St. John's band.

ST. JOHN'S DAY.

Celebration at Bangor and Waterville—Opening of the Elmwood Hotel.

BANGOR, June 24.—St. John's day was appropriately observed here. Dunlap Commandery of Bath, Joseph M. Haynes Eminent Commander, accompanied by the Augusta Band, are here, the guests of St. John's Commandery, J. Fred Leavitt Eminent Commander. Among the prominent Masons here are John Ballou of Bath, Past Grand Commander of the Grand Commandery of Maine: John Bird of Rockland, Grand Commander of the Grand Commandery of Maine; Edward P. Burnham of Saco, Deputy Grand Commander of the Grand Commandery of Maine; John O. Shaw of Bath, Grand Captain General of the Grand Commandery of Maine. This morning there was a parade through the principal streets of the city, many residences being decorated. An elegant banquet followed in Masonic Hall. In the evening there was a reception and and ball. The visiting Knights will return tomorrow morning.

WATERVILLE, June 24.—St. Alban Commandery, Sir Knights, of Portland, eighty in line, accompanied by the Haverhill cornet band, arrived here at 11 a. m., and were received by the Sir Knights of St. Omar Commandery, seventy in line, with the Waterville cornet band. After parading the principal streets, of the village the Sir Knights partook of an elegant and bountiful collatiou at the residence of Past Eminent Commander Nathaniel Meader. After a pleasant hour the visiting Sir Knights were escorted to the headquarters of the Commandery at the Elmwood, opened for this occasion, where a banquet was spread at 5 p. m. A reception and hop in the spacious and elegant parlors of the Elmwood was tendered the visitors to-night. The weather was delightful and the parade the most successful and imposing ever witnessed here. The Sir Knights leave for home at 8 a. m. to-morrow. The Elmwood, O. D. Seavey proprietor, just completed, is one of the best and finest equipped houses in New England. It will be opened to the general public on the 6th of July.

HANCOCK AND ENGLISH.

The Ticket Nominated by the Democrats.

A STAMPEDE FOR HANCOCK ON THE SECOND BALLOT.

The Party Which Prates About Military Despotism,

CHEERING FOR THE MAN ON HORSEBACK.

CINCINNATI, June 24.—President Stevenson arrived at 10-25, but the delegates' seats were only half filled.

The chair called the convention to order at 10.35.

Prayer was offered again by Rev. Dr. Taylor of the Methodist Episcopal church south. He prayed for the unanimity and harmony of the the convention so needful to accomplish the patriotic ends which it had in view.

Mr. Peckham of New York, rose to make a statement in behalf of the New York delegation. That delegation heard with great emotion (cries of "platform," and he took the desk) the votes given yesterday for the honored statesman of New York, S. J. Tilden, (great applause.)

The chair rebuked the interference with the proceedings by outsiders, and promised he would ask the convention to preserve order at any and all hazards.

Mr. Peckham resumed: The delegation had received a letter from Tilden, in which he announced himself as not a candidate for the nomination. Knowing him to be honest in word and action we accepted his letter as a renunciation of all claim and all candidacy. He now presented the letter for such action as the convention desired, but the delegation has this morning agreed upon another candidate and his name is Speaker Randall (Applause.)

Chair asked if the convention would have Tilden's letter read, (cries of "yes" and "no," but it was voted not to read it.)

Mr. Thomas of Kentucky offered a resolution denouncing as unconstitutional and unrepublican the State law affecting a citizen on account of religious or non-religious views.

Convention proceeded to ballot with the following result:

SECOND BALLOT.

Hancock	311
Bayard	113
Field	63½

Tennessee 24—Field 2, Bayard 8, Hancock 14. (Cheers. Texas 16—Bayard 15, Hancock 1. (Cheers.) Vermont 10—Hancock 10. Virginia 22—Field 7, Bayard 8, Hancock 7. West Virginia 10—Bayard 1, Thurman 2, Hancock 7. Wisconsin 20—Field 2, Bayard 2, Hancock 10 (cheers), Thurman 1, English 5. Total 738.

Before the ballot was declared Wisconsin changed her vote to Hancock. This was the signal for a stampede. Great enthusiasm and excitement followed, the delegates and galleries cheering, tossing hats, waving banners, fans and everything else available.

After all the states had corrected their votes the ballot stood as follows:

Hancock	705
Hendricks	30
Bayard	2
Tilden	1

All the states voted solidly for Hancock except Indiana, which was solid for Hendricks, Maryland which gave two votes for Bayard, and Iowa which gave one for Tilden.

When the vote was announced by the chairman the audience and convention rose and cheered and the band played Hail Columbia.

Mr. Mack of Indiana moved to make Hancock's nomination unanimous. He expressed the deep feeling of his state for Hendricks, but they were loyal to the party and would do their duty manfully.

Speaker Randall was then presented on the platform and said he was here to second the nomination of Hancock. (Cheers.) He congratulated the convention on the harmony which had marked the proceedings. The nomination made was strong and it would bring victory, it would bring Pennsylvania back to the Democratic roll. It was one that would be satisfactory to the party and the American people. (Cheers.) He pledged his earnest and constant efforts until victory crowns the work on the November Tuesday. If the people should ratify their choice Hancock would be inaugurated. (Partial applause.)

Mr. Wallace of Pennsylvania followed. The Democrats four years ago named the man who was elected President, and today they had named the next. He urged a vigorous campaign, no campaign of defence but one of constant aggression. He too pledged Pennsylvania to place herself in November next in the Democratic column.

In response to loud calls, Wade Hampton Hampton advanced to the platform and said in behalf of the solid South, which was once arrayed against the gallant soldier, he pledged to him its solid vote. There was no name held in higher respect in the South than that of the man who had now been made the standard bearer of the Democratic party. Hancock was one of the first after the war was over to exercise his influence for the restoration of the Southern people to their civil rights. He pledged South Carolina to give as large a majority as any Democratic state in the Union.

Mr. Hoadley from Ohio seconded the motion to make Hancock's nomination unanimous. The convention had commanded Ohio to take the Garfield gun and they would try. (Applause.) The action of today was worthy of that other day on which the Declaration of Independence was signed by John Hancock. (Applause.)

The Chair put the question and announced Winfield S. Hancock the unanimous choice of the convention for President of the United States. The band played "Dixie" to great cheering, followed by the Star Spangled Banner, in which the great organ joined. Then came "My County 'tis of Thee" rendered in the same manner.

A transparency of the Philadelphia Randall Association was brought in with Randall's name on one side and on the other side the legend "For President of the United States, Winfield Scott Hancock."

Mr. Voorhees of Indiana then spoke. He said that though somewhat screlocated the Indiana Democracy would do their duty in supporting the nominee of this convention. They had hoped to follow their own gallant leader in this campaign, but they would follow cheerfully the gallant leader who had been given to them. He referred to the Confederate brigaders of whom so much had been heard. He knew them and Hancock knew them, and they knew that they could rely upon them to assist in upholding the constitution and rights of the people under them. He eulogized Hancock's course in uplifting the down-trodden civil law and liberty at the end of the war making a second declaration of independence, a second declaration of the constitution. He was worthy of their confidence in war and peace, and with him they could safely trust the institutions of the country.

Mr. Faulker of New York spoke briefly but could not be understood.

In response to loud calls Mr. Breckenridge of Kentuckey came followed and said that they had to-day turned their swords into pruning hooks with which they would reap the harvest of victory next November. They had shown that they were again a united people and knew no North, no South, no East, no West. (Cheers.) They had put in nomination here to-day a man who had given his blood for the Union. He was the national candidate whose name they put out to-day in the name of the Democratic party. Kentucky always voted Democratic, but he asked what say the doubtful States. He asked New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Connecticut, New Jersey, Illinois and Indiana if they could carry this ticket in triumph and each responded yes, and in conclusion he invoked the God of battles to give the Democratic party a triumphant vicrory. (Great applause.)

At this point the Tammany men led by Kelly and Schell entered the hall amid great cheering and were greeted with music by the organ. The confusion and excitement continued several minutes before it could be quieted. Kelly proceeded to the platform and was greeted with a lively Irish air by the band and then there were great calls for him.

The chairman said it gave him great pleasure to announce to the convention that its action to-day had united the great Democratic party of New York; also that the contestants from that State had come here to give in their allegiance. He introduced Mr. Kelly who was received with great applause and some hisses. Mr. Kelly said it was true that Hancock's nomination had united the Democracy of New York though they had been fighting bitterly for five years. Let past differences be now banished forever. (Cheers.) Never again would he refer to what had transpired in the past either here or in the State of New York. He disowned ever having been actuated by personal feeling though in the anxiety of political contests they sometimes said things of each other for which in more sober moments they were ready to ask forgiveness of each other. New York could not be carried except by uniting the Democratic party, and now that this had been secured he felt it safe to promise that New York would give her electoral vote to the ticket made here. Hancock was not only a great soldier but a statesman as well, a gentleman against whom nothing can be said. (Cheers.) In conclusion he said to New York delegates sitting in the convention "Let us return to our homes, organize our party and let him who shall first refer to the troublesome and discondant past be denounced as a traitor" (Great applause.) For himself he promised to do all in his power for the success of the Democratic ticket. Turning to the New York delegates he said let us once for all take each other by the hand. We have a great duty to perform together. Let us do it with one heart and voice. (Applause.)

Mr. Fellows of New York came forward in response to calls, but was so hoarse as to be indistinct. He commended to-day's action as superb. They had healed all the distractions heretofore existing in the Democratic party, and they are united to fight one common foe, (applause), but had done still more in strangling the discord and strife which had for years dominated the whole country. They had restored us all to a common country.

At the conclusion he and Kelly shook hands formally amid great applause, the band and organ playing "Auld Lang Syne."

Those who accompanied Kelly to the platform were a committee appointed by the entire anti-Tilden delegation from New York, to appear before the convention in their behalf. On the nomination of Hancock, when the band played the second verse of "Lang Syne," the audience joined in,

At that point Susan B. Anthony pressed forward and ascended the platform presenting a paper to the chairman, who handed it to the reading clerk. It proved to be a pointed appeal by the Women's Suffrage Association, and was read by the clerk.

The paper was read through concluding with its proposed Women's suffrage plank.

The Platform.

Mr. Watterson reported the following platform:

The Democrats of the United States in Convention assembled declare

First, We pledge ourselves anew to the constitutional doctrines and traditions of the Democratic party as illustrated by the teaching and example of a long line of Democratic statesmen and patriots, re-embodied in the platform of the last national convention of the party.

Second, Opposition to centralization and that dangerous spirit of encroachment which tends to consolidate the powers of all the departments in one, and thus to create, whatever be the form of government, a real despotism, no sumptuary laws; separation of church and state for the good of each; common schools fostered and protected.

Third, Home rule, honest money consisting of gold and silver, and paper convertible into coin on demand; the strict maintenance of the public faith, state and national, and a tariff for revenue only.

Fourth, Subordination of military to civil power and a general and thorough reform of the civil service.

Fifth, The right to a free ballot is the right preservative of all rights and must and shall be maintained in every part of the United States.

Sixth, The existing administration is the representative of conspiracy only, and its claim of right to surround the ballot boxes with troops and deputy marshals to intimidate and obstruct the electors, and the unprecedented use of the veto to maintain its corrupt and despotic power, insults the people and imperils their institutions.

Seventh, The great fraud of 1876-77, by which, upon a false count of the electoral votes of two states the candidate defeated at the polls was declared to be President, and for the first time in American history the will of the people was set aside under threat of military violence, struck a deadly blow at our system of representative government. The Democratic party, to save the country from the horrors of a civil war, submitted for the time in the firm and patriotic faith that the people would punish this crime in 1880. This issue precedes and dwarfs every other. It imposes a more sacred duty upon the people of the Union than ever asaddressed to the conscience of a nation of freemen.

Eighth, We execrate the course of this administration in making places in the civil service a reward for a political crime and demand reform by statute, which shall make it forever impossible for a defeated candidate to bribe his way to the seat of a usurper by billeting the villains upon the people. (This was read again in response to demands and was received with applaus.)

Ninth, The resolution of Samuel J. Tilden not again to be a candidate for the exalted place to which he was elected by a majority of his countrymen, and from which he was ejected by the leaders of the Republican party, is received by the Democrats of the United States with sensibility and they declare their confidence in his wisdom, patriotism and integrity unshaken by assaults of the common enemy, and they further assure him that he is followed into retirement by a love chosen for himself by the sympathy and respect of his fellow citizens who regard him as one who by elevating the standard of public morality and adorning and purifying the public service merits the lasting gratitude of his country and his party.

Tenth, Free ships and a living chance for Americans on the seas and on land, no discrimination in far transportation lines, corproations or monopolies.

Eleventh, We demand an amendment of the Burlingame treaty so there will be no more Chinese immigration except for travel, education and foreign commerce and therein carefully guarded.

Twelfth, Public money and public credit for public purposes solely, and public land for actual settlers.

Thirteenth, The Democratic party is the friend of labor and laboring men, and pledges itself to protect him alike against the cormorant and commune.

Fourteenth, We congratulate the country upon the honesty and thrift of the Democratic Congress, which has reduced the public expenditures $40,000,000 a year; upon the continuation of prosperity at home and the national honor abroad, and above all upon the promise of such a change of the administration of the Government as shall insureus a genuine and lasting reform in every department of the public service.

The platform was adopted unanimously.

Edmund Wilson is the Maine member of the new National Committee, and Frederick O. Prince represents Massachusetts. Of the committee to inform the candidates of their nomination Wm. G. Davis is the member from Maine and Josiah G. Abbott from Massachusetts.

A delegate from Massachusetts moved a resolution that the national committee be instructed to make arrangements at the next national convention for seats for delegates, alternates and press alone, so as to make the convention in all respects a deliberative body.

Mr. Farley of Oregon opposed the resolution. He thought the public had rights. He moved to table the resolution.

Massachusetts asked for call of roll. (Cries of "no" and there was no second.) The resolution was tabled.

Vice President.

Mr. Pulitzer of Missouri moved the convention now proceed to the nomination of a candidate for Vice President. It was agreed to.

The call of roll by states was ordered.

Mr. Pettis of Alabama put in nomination Wm. H. English of Indiana.

Some one moved that it be made unanimous. (Cries of "no," "no" "proceed with the ballot")

California, Colorado, Connectict, Deleware, Florida, Illinois and Georgia seconded English's nomination. Indiana being called Voorhees took the platform and said Indiana had not been an applicant for the second place on the ticket, but was deeply touched by this mark of confidence in the name of her most distinguished citizen, a man who was never defeated for any position when his name was before the people, nor would he now. He would cast his vote for English.

On the continued call of states all but Ohio, which presented Gov. Bishop's name, seconded English's nomination. It was then moved that his nomination be made by acclamation, and Ohio having withdrawn Bishop's name this was done.

After the usual votes of thanks and the selection of a national committee the convention adjourned.

HANCOCK CONGRATULATED.

Liberal Contributions of Taffy from Aleged Statesmen.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Gen. Hancock was was found this afternoon on the verandah of his official residence on Governor's Island surrounded by his military friends. In response to congratulations, the General said:

"I have nothing to say at present, as I have not been officially notified of my nomination," and while a quizzical smile played about the corners of his mouth the General added, "you know it might all be a mistake. However, I have received a number of congratulatory telegrams which you can see and copy."

So saying the General referred the reporter to his office, where he was allowed to copy the following telegrams:

"I cordially congratulate you on your nomination."
SAMUEL J. TILDEN.

"I have just thrown you our solid vote and congratulate you on your nomination."
WM. A. WALLACE,
Senator of Pennsylvania.

Hon. Daniel Dougherty, of Pennsylvania, sent the following:

"You are our nominee. We send congratulations."

Senator Wm. Pinckney White, of Maryland, telegraphed hearty congratulations to the next President of the United States.

Gen. Joseph E. Johnson, member of Congress of Virginia, sent greeting as follows:

"Nomination makes me much gladder than you."

Senator Randolph, of New Jersey, telegraphed:

"My hearty congratulations. New Jersey is solid and will stand by you."

When the reporter left Governor's Island despatches of congratulations were pouring in rapidly.

John J. Cisco, banker, sent the following despatch;

"I heartily congratulate you on your nomination and regard your election certain."

To the announcement of his nomination Gen. Hancock said:

Gentlemen—I thank you all for your good wishes and congratulations on my nomination. It is impossible at the present moment for me to say anything on this subject. It is a great surprise to me, and one I was entirely unprepared for. I can only thank my friends for this mark of distinction, and to the gentlemen of the press I can only add that the despatch I hold in my hand was a great surprise to me. I thank you all for your congratulations.

The General shook hands with many of his friends who came crowding into the headquarters to express enthusiasm on the result of the nomination at Cincinnati. On all sides expression of joy at the result was unbounded.

PRESS COMMENTS.

New York Post.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The Post says: In some respects the nomination is a strong one. Hancock was too brave and patriotic a soldier to be challenged for fidelity to the Union. In the analysis of his character not a trace of "copperheadism" can be found. Some of the questions which have served the Republicans well are henceforth obsolete." Beyond this item is little to be said in support of the nomination. Hancock has been chosen on military grounds. The party which has protested against "the man on horseback" and has insisted upon putting away the sword in the administration of political affairs, has chosen a successful soldier without experience in civil life, simply because he is a successful soldier.

New York Commercial Advertiser.

The Commercial Advertiser says: It is a strong nomination, the very best that could be made under the circumstances. General Hancock has been all his life in the military service and has made an honorable record. He never had any experience in the administration of civil government and is an untried man in this sphere. We hope Hancock's nomination will prevent the Presidential campaign from being made one of vituperation and slander. Partisan journals no doubt will attempt to hold Hancock responsible for hanging Mrs Surrat, but they might as well understand first as last that there are no votes to be gained for Gen. Garfield in arraigning him for his connection with that trial. He has no fitness for the high office of President compared with Gen. Garfield, who has served in every department of our civil service.

The New York Staats Zeitung.

The Staats Zeiting calls the work of the Cincinnati convention a new departure of the Democracy and says in the course of a long editorial strongly approving the nomination: "We perceive in the result of the Cincinnati convention a sign of the improvement of our political condition. We would still adhere to this view should the Democratic candidate be defeated though we could not look upon such a defeat in any other light than a deplorable triumph of a continued contemptible partizan spirit. Mr. English as president of a national bank is as bitter a pill for the western soft money men as Hancock is for the Southern Bourbons.

New York Tribune.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The Tribune will say: In an hour of excitement and passion another Democratic convention has missed all chance of victory. Eager to bury Tildenism and to escape the nomination of Tilden, which seemed at Cincinnati as here to be inevitable as it would have been fatal the convention went with a rush to the first candidate who appeared to have the lead.

New York Sun.

The Sun says: The nomination of Hancock presents the same great issue which would have been presented by the nomination of Tilden, although we had hoped the latter would be nominated by the convention. The Sun speaks highly of Hancock, calling him a straightforward, outspoken, sincere man, and says the convention did well in giving them such a candidate.

Brooklyn Eagle.

The Brooklyn Eagle says of Hancock:—No nomination ever came more manifestly from the hearts of the people.

N. Y. Express.

The Express says:—The result is a splendid victory of the men who for three long years have battled against a traitor and marplot whose name goes down covered with obloquy. Let every good citizen, every patriot rejoice and be gratified.

N. Y. Graphic.

The Graphic says:—The nomination of Hancock is an extremely strong one, the strongest probably the Democrats could make.

Boston Herald.

BOSTON, June 24.—The Herald, commenting upon the Democratic ticket, says the Democratic convention has done well. The nomination of a gallant and patriotic Union soldier, is probably as strong a nomination to put before the people as could have been made. The Herald thinks it will be a difficult matter to arouse any sectional feeling against him, and says the nomination of Garfield by the Republicans forced the Democrats up to the level of nominating Hancock. "The people of the country," it continues, "will now be able to make their choice between two men, both of whom represent those ideas and principles which underlie our American civilization, both of whom displayed their patriotism by faithful service under the flag." With candidates so unexceptionable the voters will be able to give calm consideration to the principles of the parties behind them.

Boston Journal.

The Journal says: In Gen. Hancock the Democracy have a candidate who inspires as much enthusiasm as did Tilden in 1876. Coming to a party fearing the worst possible nomination it will be received with demonstrations of pleasure. The anti-war element of the Democratic party and the northern leaders who fought Gen. Hancock in the war during the war would not have selected him for standard bearer if they had consulted their wishes because all of his prestige and renown is connected with a war in which they were hostile to him. Next to Gev. Seymour Gen. Hancock is the strongest man that the Democrats could nominate We would have our Republican friends fully understand this. Among thoughtful men and those known as independent votes Hancock will lose strength with the lapse of time. They will see he has no special qualifications for the office, no experience in civil life and no familiarity with civil administration. English was added to the ticket to make Indiana a Democratic State.

Boston Advertiser.

The Boston Advertiser considers the nomination of Hancock gives the Democracy the advantage of a candidate who hrs a good record as a soldier and is personally without blemish. It regulates the fraud issue to the secondary place in the canvass and crowds out altogether many troublesome questions about which the Democrats themselves have been divided almost to the verge of hopeless wreck and dissolution.

Boston Post.

The Post warmly approving of nominations prefers to contemplate Gen. Hancobk from the standpoint of a civilian and statesman, and alluding to his well known general order in New Orleans in 1867 says: "Herein is an embodiment of statesmanship which appeals to the popular heart and is a pledge of national security and prosperity.

Cincinnati Gazette.

CINCINNATI, June 24.—The Gazette will say editorially: "The Republican party had never more cause to exult on its grand war history than when now fifteen years after the war has ended a Democratic convention has made loyalty to the nation in that war the supreme and sole consideration in nominating a candidate for president.

The Commercial says the ticket is obviously weak when it should have been especially strong. It is weak in the doubtful October state of Indiana. The nomination of English is not only not strong in itself, but is a blow at Hendricks that strikes him in his tenderest part. English was put up for the annoyance of Hendricks by the Tilden people. There is wailing on the Wabash.

CELEBRATING

Much More Enthusiastic than They will be in November.

LEWISTON, June 24.—The Democrats are firing salutes in honor of Hancock's nomination.

BELFAST, June 24.—The city bells were rung half an hour this afternoon in honor of the nomination of Hancock and English, which is favorably received here.

WATERVILLE, June 24.—The nomination of Hancock is regarded as a very strong one by all parties here.

BOSTON, June 24.—New England dispatches indicate lively satisfaction among the Democrats with the nominations, manifested in salutes, flag raising, pyrotechnical displays, etc.

Dispatches from the West and South also indicate enthusiasm.

The Nominees.

Winfield Scott Hancock was born in Montgomery county, Penn., Feb. 14, 1824, entered West Point from that State in 1840 and graduated in 1844. He served in the Mexican and Florida wars and was afterwards stationed on the Kansas frontier. In September, 1861, he was commissioned Brigadier General of volunteers and assigned to duty

The Ocean House will be closed to the public on Sundays. Only friends and acquaintances of guests stopping at the house will be admitted.

It is understood that a little unpleasantness arose between two Democratic politicians, near the Grand Trunk station yesterday afternoon.

The enumerators of Wards 1 and 7, and those of Casco have filed their census listsward 7 men will be at the clerk's officeTuesday and Wednesday, and Ward 1 and Casco Wednesday and Thursday, to make corrections.

A little boy living in the house of William Landragin, near the corner of Fore and Banks street, threw some matches in a barrel of shavings. Mr. T. Twigg saw the fire and extinguished the flames before much damage was done.

The news of the nomination of Hancock and English did not create apparently much enthusiasm in this city. Most of the Democrats thought it a good one, although they should have preferred Tilden.

In Senter's window can be seen a beautiful blossom from a tulip tree which grows in Mr. Henry Milliken's garden, and, is we believe, the only one in the city. The blossom is a delicate straw color with a bud of scarlet in the centre.

THE BLUES.

Celebration of the 73d Anniversary.

Yesterday morning at half past seven o'clock the Blues formed in Market Square, and marched to the Eastern depot. The Portland band accompanied them. At the depot they received the Biddeford Light Infantry, both companies being drawn up on Commercial street near the depot. At this point St. Alban Commandery preceded by the Haverhill Cornet band appeared and passed in front of them. The ready salute of the military companies was heartily returned by the Knights. The Blues escorting the Biddeford corps then took their line of march up Park to Danforth streets, up Danforth to State, down State to Congress and thence to the Preble House where a halt was made. The honorary members of the Blues here joined the actives and the line of march was resumed down Middle and Pearl streets to Custom House wharf, where the steamer Gazelle was in readiness to take them to Long Island. Upon arrival at the Island an excellent breakfast was served by Messrs. Fletcher and Littlefield, after which target shooting and base ball were indulged in. The first prize for the Biddeford Light Infantry was awarded to Dr. H. E. Hill, he making 20 out of a possible score of 25. The poorest shot was made by Sergeant G. E. W. Bryant. The first prize for the honoraries of the Blues was awarded I. P. Waterhouse. The poorest shot was made by private C. W. Withington. The first prize for invited guests was taken by policeman C. K. Newcomb. The poorest shot was made by Capt. Neil Winslow. The first prize for actives was won by Private Scully. The poorest shot was private F. H. Webster. The shooting of the actives gave a tie between Sergeant Curtis, privates C. H. Ross and Scully, each making 11 out of a possibly 15, but by Wingate's Tactics the prize was awarded to Scully.

Mr. A. Leighton led the honorary nine in the base ball match and F. H. Webster the actives. The former won. In the match Mr. Ross had his nose broken by a blow from the ball, but it was set by Dr. Vose.

After a splendid dinner, served at 2 p. m., the boat was taken for home, and after leaving the Biddeford company at the station, the Blues marched to the Preble House and left their guests, and then to the armory where they were dismissed, delighted with the day's excursion.

Trial of Relief Valves.

Yesterday afternoon the committee on fire department, the chief and assistant engineers, tested the new relief valves—which have been placed on steamers 1 and 5—at the foot of Myrtle street.

The idea of the valve is to enable the pipeman to shut off, or let on, the stream from the pipe, without causing the engine to stop working. When the stream is shut off by the relief valve action the water is forced continually through the suction pump without any danger of bursting the hose. Yesterday the experiments worked very well. A power as high as 160 pounds was applied and the water shut off and let on with ease for a large stream. For a small stream there was more or less spray. The only possible drawback we could see was that sometime or other the pressure upon the steamer, after the shut-off, might cause some part of the machine to give way. An engineer of the Grand Trunk, who was present, said that if the safety valve was properly attended to he thought the stream would not do any damage. The valve will be more fully tested at a fire. In Boston, the inventor says, the valve has worked most satisfactorily.

St. Alban Commandery.

At half past seven o'clock yesterday morning St. Alban Commandery, Knights Templar formed in line in front of the hall on Exchange street, preparatory to starting on their trip to Waterville to celebrate St. John's day and the opening of the new Elmwood house. Sixty-three appeared in uniform. The Haverhill cornet band came on the early train to accompany them. Their playing during the march was excellent. The Knights marched up Middle and Free streets to Park, and from there directly to the depot where they took the Maine Central train for Waterville.

A New Vessel.

Master Russell is building at his yard in Deering a three masted schooner of 550 tons burden, for Capt. J. C. York and others. She is to be a fine vessel, thoroughly built of the best materials. Six tons of iron will be used in fastening the kelson to the keel. She will be 135 feet in length, 33 feet in breadth and 12 feet in depth. Her poop will be 50 feet in length, coming forward of the mainmast. She will be used in the West India and coasting trade.

Temperance Union.

At the annual meeting of the Temperance Union held at Congress Hall last evening the following named officers were elected for the ensuing six months:

President—Benjamin Kingsbury.
First Vice President—J. B. Fillebrown.
Second Vice President—G. H. Wentworth.
Chaplain—Job T. Sanford.
Treasurer—J. H. McDonald.
Secretary—C. D. Starbird.
Sergeants-at-Arms—R. B. Whitcomb and H. M. Fogg.

TEMPERANCE.

Interesting Movement Among the Seamen.

Captain S. J. Thompson of the bark Grasmere of Glasgow, who is now in this city, represents a new and interesting movement looking towards the reformation of sailors. Capt. Thompson is the first vice president of a seaman's temperance organization known as the Philadelphia Maritime Temperance League, the first of the kind to be formed by ship masters and sailors themselves.

Last January several ship masters, among whom was Capt. Thompson, met in Philadelphia and talked over the temperance question as far as seamen in general and ship masters in particular were concerned, and to use Capt. Thompson's own words, "We concluded that a ship was a great deal safer if the captain was a sober man." and the League was formed at the suggestion of one of their number, and embraces 120 members in Philadelphia. The object, as stated in the paper issued by the League, and given to each member, is as follows:

"This society is formed for the express purpose of enabling all persons, in any way connected with shipping, to become total abstainers from intoxicating drinks in all ports they may visit. It is the intention of the founders of this League, to endeavor to make its influence felt all over the world, for the elevation of the nautical profession in general and ship masters in particular."

At present the following gentlemen are the active committee of management of the League:

President—Capt. F. Dester, bark Miako.
Vice President—Capt. T. J. Johnson, "Grasmere."
Secretary and Treasurer—Capt. L. D. Barrett.
Committee—Capt. Houghton, "William Geo"; Capt. Veetch, "Kentish Tar."

As a matter of interest to the shipmasters and owners of this city, we appeud the constitution and rules of the League.

CONSTITUTION:

That each member being a shipmaster shall be furnished with a printed copy of the rules when sailing, the same to be used for their authority for the purpose of forming branch Leagues in all foreign or domestic ports visited by them, and it will be their duty to act as first President and appoint committees of management, to conform as near as possible with the constitution of this, the original League, and it shall be the duty of the secretary of each branch League to communicate with the home secretary, stating the same, and all such correspondence will be acknowledged by return mail, and entered on the minutes of this League by that official.

Our flag is a blue penant with white T one third from staff. It is requested that all shipmasters should fly this on every special occasion, holidays, &c.

RULES:

Due notice shall be given of all special meetings, which shall be held as appointed by the President.

We place our trust in members' honor and conscientious principles as men to avoid the use of all strong drinks after he or she becomes a member.

Any member found breaking the preceeding rule shall be fined 10 cents.

All members on joining this society shall pay an entrance fee of 10 cents, and all fines to be paid into the treasury for the use of the League, as may be determined by the committee of management; the entrance fee will in no case be returned.

The committee of management shall consist of ten members, to be relieved by other members on leaving this port. in the order of rotation of joining.

The President (always a shipmaster) shall appoint his own successor, with the approval of the committee of management, and the office of treasurer shall be permanent, that official also acting as secretary.

General meetings shall be held weekly for the purpose of receiving reports and transacting other business in connection with the League.

Respectable ship brokers are requested to aid our efforts by giving these rules a conspicuous position in their places of business.

Capt. Thompson is very earnest in his support of the temperance cause, and will, while in Portland, if desired, engage actively in the work of aiding the reform men, and has been, it is understood, invited to speak next Sunday evening at Preble chapel.

PERSISTENT LARCENY.

Horse Railroad Employes Brought to Justice.

For some time past the directors of the Portland Horse Railroad have been impressed with the idea that the sums of money returned by some of the car boxes did not amount to as much as they should. The last fortnight watch has been kept and the result is it has unearthed a plan of systematic larceny.

Mr. O. N. Alden has been employed by the company for five years past in many capacities. He was carpenter, oiler, occasionally drove a car, and had been employed in the treasurer's office. He was the first man at the car depot in the morning and their oiled the wheels for the day's work. He was not only a very useful employe but he was liked by his employers. A year ago this spring Alden was employed in painting and varnishing the cars for their summer work, and during that time made four or five false keys, one of which he retained. It appears that the last collection of money and tickets from the cars is made by the treasurer at 9.15 p. m., and then the cars make two more round trips. The money put into the boxes during these last two trips remains in them over night and is collected by the treasurer at 9.15 the next morning. A fortnight ago it is known that money was put in the boxes on these two last trips, together with pieces of paper placed in one of the boxes by some fellows for a lark. The blank paper was left the next morning but the money taken. Last Friday night a man offered a driver, A. F. Howard, twenty-five cents to continue up the line, past the car station, on the last trip, to the passenger's house. The silver quarter was placed in the box. The next morning it was missing. The treasurer also placed marked money in the box which was traced to the possession of Alden and Howard. Officer Morse yesterday arrested both men. They have confessed their guilt. How much they have taken it is impossible to tell. No other employes are suspected

Portland Commandery.

The Providence Journal says:—Portland Commandery, No. 2, Knights Templar, left home Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock by special train and reached this city at 7 in the evening. They were met at the depot by Sir Knights Massie, Burnham and Earle, reception committee of St. John's Commandery, and some forty or fifty members of the Commandery, and after a cordial greeting the line was formed on Exchange Place as follows:

Police Skirmishers—Sergeants Rankin and Wilbur. Chandler's Band, D. H. Chandler leader, 25 pieces. Reception Committee St. John's Lodge.

Portland Commandery, No. 2, Knights Templar, Eminent Commander, J. Y. Hodsdon; Generalissimo, Leander W. Fobes; Captain General, Frank H. Swett; Prelate, James F. Hankes; Treasurer, Leonard O. Short; Recorder, John S. Russell; Senior Warden, Gen. George L. Beale; Junior Warder, A. S. Hinds; Sword Bearer, Clayton J. Farrington; Standard Bearer, George M. Leighton; Warden, Oscar M. Metcalf; Guards, John E. Sawyer, Emory S. Ridlon, Charles H. Kimball; Armorer, C. C Hayes—70 Knights.

The line of march was across Exchange Place and through Dorrance street to the Narragansett Hotel, where the visitors were promptly assigned to their quarters and partook of supper. The visiting Knights attracted considerable attention, and presented a solid and substantial front as became the hardy sons of the Dirigo State. After supper the band gave a grand concert in the corridor of the hotel, and the music was warmly appreciated. The Portland Commandery is one of the oldest organizations in the State, its charter dating back to 1847, and has in its ranks the leading business men of Portland and vicinity. The visiting Knights passed the evening very quietly, and after their long day's ride in the cars were allowed to amuse themselves as they deemed most agreeable.

The Commandery reached Newport yesterday forenoon from Providence and were met at the depot by a delegation of Washington Commandery of that city. After a parade the visitors received a collation by the local commandery, the officers of which dined with the visitors as guests of the latter at the Ocean House. The visitors returned to Providence at 4.30 p. m.

Gorham.

The Congregational Sabbath School, under the charge of their efficient Superintendent, J. A. Hinkley, took their annual excursion yesterday by teams to Lake Station, thence by the commodious steamer Sebago Lake to Songo river. At the lock a landing was made and ample justice done to a picnic dinner. Capt. James E. Kinnard and the clerk, Geo. S. Marr, by their kind attentions rendered the trip one of rare interest and pleasure to all. Messrs. Johnson, Bean and Harding, well known for careful but not slow driving took the excursionists home in a manner that filled the day's enjoyment to the brim. The day was one of our rare days of June perfection and a slight shower with its accompanying rainbow while at the station crowned the glories of the occasion.

UNIVERSALIST CONVENTION.

Third Day.

BRUNSWICK, June 24.

After the communion services yesterday afternoon a business meeting was held with Hon. Sidney Perham in the chair.

Rev. Mr. Munson presented the application of the newly organized parish in Dixfield for the fellowship of the convention.

Rev. Mr. Nash of Camden moved a series of resolutions, which were adopted, requesting the committee on F. O. and D., to issue certificates of ordination to those clergymen who are entitled to them, and to instruct the Secretary to publish in the Gospel Banner a list of all parishes in the fellowship of the convention.

Judge Dresser, for the executive committee, submitted a report on the act additional to the act to incorporate the Maine Universalist convention passed by the Legislature in 1879 authorizing the convention to hold church property in trust.

The convention accepted the act, and after considerable discussion the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to prepare a plan of trust deed for the purpose of carrying into immediate effect the objects of said Legislative act.

That the executive committee be and that they are hereby authorized and empowered for and in the name of the convention to take conveyances in trust under the provision of chapter 188 of the private and special laws of 1879, and for and in the name of the convention to accept the trust of said property, and to agree to discharge the duties of said trust, such conveyances in trust to be according to the general method set out in the draft of deed hereto attached, but the precise form to be determined by the committee for the same already appointed by the convention.

The chairman appointed for committee under the first resolution, is Mr. R. Dresser, Hon. M. P. Fronk and Rev. S. Goodenough.

At the evening services and session "church interests" were considered. Rev. Mr. Vail of South Berwick conducted the devotional services.

A very interesting report was read by the secretary of the convention, Rev. I. J. Mead of Hiram. Rev. H. A. Philbrook read an essay on "Our Church Work." He was followed by Rev. S. Goodenough, whose essay was on "The most efficient methods of promoting the growth of our church."

The Secretary's report and the suggestions of the essayists were discussed by Hon. Sidney Perham, Rev. Dr. Quinby and Rev. Messrs. Thompson and Stevens.

The executive committee were instructed to put a missionary in the field this convention year, and to call upon the parishes to contribute to his support.

Concerning the case of Mr Nutting, formerly of Bath, already referred to in our report of the convention, the committee on fellowship, ordination and discipline say that statements were made to them which so seriously affected the character of Mr. Nutting that they officially withdrew the "letter of transfer" which they had given to him.

Old Orchard Beach R. R.

By invitation of S. E. Spring, Esq., a small party went to Old Orchard on the 1.05 train to make an initial trip over this new road. This road runs from Old Orchard station to the Saco river, a distance of three and one half miles, following the line of the beach and seldom distant more than one hundred feet from highwater mark, and sometimes coming within forty or fifty feet of it. At the Saco river, where a pier is being built, a boat is to be put on which will connect with Biddeford Pool. The road is of the usual gauge, although the cars are smaller and more compact, with seats running crosswise, and open sides, giving a very fine view of the beautiful scenery along the beach. A small dummy engine, and one or two ordinary passenger cars, though of smaller build, aid in giving the little train a very neat and tasty appearance. The road, although it has been built within the past six weeks, is well ballasted and runs very smoothly. There are no intermediate stations, unless indeed the Bay View House be considered a station, and the trip to Saco river takes not more than twenty minutes to half an hour. Through the courtesy of Mr. Spring, who seemed determined that all should enjoy themselves, quite a large party from the various hotels and seaside houses at Old Orchard got on board and the trip was most thoroughly enjoyed by all. It certainly is well worth a trip from Portland to take a run over the new road, and during the height of the summer season, when Old Orchard is thronged, as it always is, with guests and tourists, it will be a most agreeable change from the ordinary routine of seaside life to take a trip to the Saco and back, and the new road will undoubtedly be patronized as thoroughly as it certainly deserves to be.

Installation at Biddeford.

In accordance with the call of the Second Congregational church, Biddeford, a council of which the Rev. Edward Chase, of Lyman, was Moderator and the Rev. W. S. Kimball, of Wells, Scribe, assembled at Biddeford Tuesday afternoon to advise regarding the settlement of the Rev. George H. Wilson, lately of Globe Village, Massachusetts, as pastor of the church. Upon examination, which was full and well sustained, the theological views of the candidate were pronounced fully satisfactory, and by unanimous vote the council advised to proceed with the installation. That took place in the evening with appropriate exercises. The new pastor enters upon his work with everything to encourage in a field full of promise. He succeeds the Rev. George R. Merrill, now of Paynesville, Ohio.

Reserve Militia.

The Saco Rifles of Saco were mustered into the State service at City Hall, Saco, last Wednesday, by Capt. Cyrus P. Berry of Company G, First Regiment M. V. M.; Examining Surgeon Dr. Hampton E. Hill of Biddeford. Fifty-five men took the oath, a number of whom are veterans. Capt. Berry presided at the election for commissioned officers and the following named gentlemen were elected:

Captain—Frank E. Clarkson.
First Lieutenant—Frank M. Green.
Second Lieutenant—Chas. F. Ward.

They will receive their arms and equipments shortly.

Scarboro.

The Republicans of Scarboro met in caucus Saturday afternoon and chose delegates as follows—

District Convention—Chas. Pillsbury, Ira Milliken, Dominicus Libby.
County Convention—Howard Scamman, Ezra Milliken, Chas. L. Milliken.

There was a unanimous expression against Mr. Perry for Sheriff. WIDE AWAKE.

NOTICE.—For the past thirty three years, "CONGRESS" Yeast Powder has been extensively sold. It has always been made pure and healthy, and is today without a rival.

☞ Slade's English Mustard, and Congress Yeast Powder, are standard, always reliable.

Caucus—Excursion—Ships—High School Graduation—Straws,

THURSDAY, June 24.

The schooner Wm. L. White, launched yesterday Packard, will be commanded by Capt. Henry L. Babbitt. Her length is 189.9 feet, bath 39 feet.9 feet, depth 17.4 feet and tonnage 996.51. She is the largest schooner ever built in this district. Her masts are now slipped.

An excursion of the Knights of Pythias from Lewiston passed through the city this morning with the Lewiston band for the island.

The Henry Hobson towed a raft of 800 logs to Wiscasset this morning.

Rev. J. R. Day of New Hampshire, is making a short visit in town to old friends.

Many business people closed today to give their employes a holiday. Notably was this so on Commercial street.

A West Bath farmer had a grudge against another farmer. Finding the former's horses in the road he impounded them in his barn and made the owner pay $5 to secure possession of them. The parties came to blows during the transaction.

The Sebanoa brought an excursion party from Parker's Head: the Samoset two from Boothbay; the Valeria one from Boothbay, and the Knox & Lincoln 1100 people from the east. Crowds came over the Maine Central and the Woolwich ferry, while innumerable vehicles brought in the honest farmers and their buxom wives and daughters, all to attend the circus. Quite 3500 strangers were in town. The police force was augmented by specials, but the day passed off quietly.

EXHAUSTION.—Thousands are daily passing to premature graves because unable to throw off the Debility which has fastened itself upon their systems. Why? Because the cause, ENFEEBLED DIGESTION and IMPOVERISHED BLOOD, is not reached by any remedy or treatment. Give these unhappy invalids something to sustain life, something to create new, RICH BLOOD. Give them Good Digestion, Active Livers, and Healthy Kidneys, and Pure Blood will electrify the system and throw off disease. MALT BITTERS! At once a Medicine and a Food, this wonderful Nutrient and Invigorant builds up enfeebled digestion, regulates the flow of the gastric juices, dissolves and assimilates every article of diet, and vitalizes with new life every organ and fluid of the body.

MALT BITTERS are prepared without fermentation from Canadian BARLEY MALT and HOPS, and are free from the objections urged against malt liquors.

Ask for MALT BITTERS prepared by the MALT BITTERS COMPANY, and see that every bottle bears the TRADE MARK LABEL, duly signed and enclosed in wave lines as seen in the cut.

MALT BITTERS are for sale by all Durggists. ap22 d1ltT&FNo10

Wit and Wisdom.

If there is anything to make a dog run mad it is to find that other dogs can get along without paying a license.—New Orleans Picayune.

Vitalizing, nourishing and stimulating, without intoxicating, are Malt Bitters.

Andy Smith is a Chicago burglar who pays his exclusive attention to drug stores. If he robs them at their selling prices, one or two breaks will make him a millionaire.—Boston Post.

To enjoy good health, aim to always have abundant sleep; this can generally be secured by management, unless there be a crying baby in the house, in which case Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup will greatly assist. Price 25 cents a bottle.

Joachim, the greatest of living violinists, is coming to the United States to fiddle us out of our spare cash. But his success in this country is a matter of some doubt, unless, before landing, he hitches the "j" on the other end of his name. We'll bet on Oachimj, but not on Joachim.—Norristown Herald.

There had been a heavy thunder storm and the parched earth and wilted vegetation drank in the refreshing showers. "I should think the plants would whisper to each other how delicious it was," he exclaimed enthusiastically. "Yes," she said, "all but the onions; they wouldn't be likely to whisper with such a breath."

Chowders got a good dinner at home a few days ago by telling his wife he was going to bring a judge home with him to that meal. When he arrived alone, and Mrs. Chowder asked him where the judge was, he triumphantly pointed to himself, remarking: "I'm a good judge of a dinner." He will be obliged to get a meal some other way hereafter.

LAXATIVE AND CATHARTIC.
Highly recommended by leading physicians
For CONSTIPATION and BILIOUSNESS.
Very Pleasant to the Taste.
Persons of sedentary habits, those who have malarial or other chronic diseases which produce Costiveness, continued invalids and the aged, all who need a mild and certain laxative which admits of continued use without harm, will find them an invaluable remedy. Very obstinate Constipation attended with Piles will yield to their persistent use. They are especially adapted to CLERGYMEN who dread the disagreeable taste and unpleasant action of other medicines. Infants can safely take them. Always keep them in the house. PRICE 50 CENTS PER JAR.
